

News Report From Edmonton

By Ken Mason

EDMONTON—On October 30, for the first time since prohibition came to an end, Albertans will have an opportunity to tell the government what kind of laws they want to control the sale and consumption of alcoholic beverages.

The forthcoming province-wide plebiscite is gradually gaining widespread interest, with the dries campaigning vigorously for a "no" vote and the wets striving somewhat more quietly to get out the "yes" vote.

The outcome, of course, is anyone's guess at this point because no clear pattern has emerged. Liquor is a mighty controversial topic, as evidenced by the one-vote majority with which the Legislature last spring decided to hold the October plebiscite.

For the record, there are a few things that should be said about the liquor vote.

The question on the ballot, to be answered yes or no, will read as follows: "Should additional types of outlets for the sale of beer, wine and spirituous liquor be permitted if such outlets are later approved by local vote?"

What will this mean? In the first place, there is some confusion over the first few words of the question. Some persons are referring to a vote on "additional outlets," while the question says additional TYPES of outlets.

The question, then, is not whether Alberta has enough outlets for liquor, beer and wine. Most will agree there are enough of the only type presently allowed—hotel beer parlors, government liquor stores and private clubs.

Whether there are enough types of outlets is another matter, and a large segment of the population believes there are not.

One of the major arguments for more types of outlets is that the present Liquor Control Act makes it legal for the citizen wealthy enough to belong to a private club to buy mixed drinks by the glass, while the average citizen must either drink beer or purchase his liquor by the bottle.

Many who enjoy the odd drink believe this is discriminatory. The temperance forces, on the other hand, say the present laws make it easy enough for anyone to obtain all the liquor he wants. There also is an argument that types of outlets should be established which offer better surroundings than those found in most beer parlors, and where the emphasis is on the social aspects rather than on drinking alone. The temperance argument is that any easing of restriction leads to more drinking, more drunkenness, more alcoholism, and a general decline in morals.

It should be pointed out that the results of the plebiscite technically are not binding on the government. The vote will be nothing but an expression of public opinion.

Undoubtedly the government will have to act on that expression of opinion, but a heavy majority in favor of additional types of outlets will not automatically result in things being thrown wide open.

As the ballot question clearly states, additional types of outlets would be established only after gaining the approval of residents in local option votes, similar to those held now before beer licences are granted.

Even if the laws are broadened, it will still be up to the government, under test-calling Premier Manning, and the liquor control board, to decide what types of establishments will be permitted, and how they will be controlled.

No matter what happens, it is certain that controls will continue to be strict—perhaps even more strict than they are now under laws which lack a certain measure of public respect and are difficult to enforce.

As voting day approaches, campaigning probably will gain momentum. The powerful temperance forces can be expected to deluge the public with pamphlets, and already there have been public meetings with lectures by speakers advocating abstinence. A committee formed in Edmonton is busily preparing propaganda aimed at promoting a "no" vote.

On the other side, the Canadian Restaurant Association has already begun an advertising campaign calling for relaxation of the liquor laws, and it is understood the resort owners are planning to approach it from the tourist industry standpoint.

In 1956 Canadian motorists paid $384 million in provincial registration fees and gasoline taxes, $170 million in federal excise and sales taxes on new vehicles.

TAKE A CLOSE LOOK AT THE LIQUOR QUESTION!

"Should additional types of outlets for the sale of beer, wine and spirituous liquors be permitted if such outlets are later approved by local vote?"

This question will appear on your ballot when you vote on the liquor plebiscite. It has been very carefully phrased to secure a public expression of opinion on a vital issue - whether the present liquor laws are in line with your present-day thinking.

The Alberta Hotel Association feels that the last few words of the ballot are of special importance. They make it clear that if the Liquor Control Act is amended, any new type of outlet will still be subject to a local vote before being introduced into your Community.

What types of liquor outlets may you expect to vote on locally? In its Brief to the Legislature's Special Liquor Committee, The Alberta Hotel Association suggested that if amendments are to be made in the Liquor Act the following be considered:

- Liquor Licenses for Dining Rooms of an obviously high standard.
- Cocktail Lounges in hotels with suitable administrative restrictions as to number and character of hotels where liquor may be sold.

When we made these suggestions, it was with complete confidence in the Alberta Government's administration of the Liquor Control Act. We feel that fears expressed on the question of new types of outlets are exaggerated. Any new outlets for the sale of liquor would, we are sure, be controlled by legal restrictions.

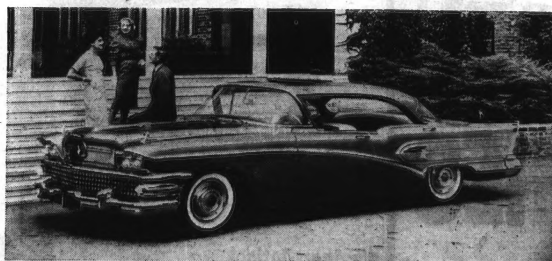

The Plebiscite is being held because your views on this question are important - vitally important! The present Liquor Control Act is based on a Plebiscite held thirty-four years ago. Governments hesitate to change laws unless demanded by a special public vote. Your decision NOW will affect Alberta's liquor laws for many years to come.

You have been asked to give your opinion... GIVE IT by casting your Vote on October 30th!

GET OUT AND VOTE

on the Liquor Plebiscite!

Re: Brucellosis Restricted Areas — Grants

Several organizations have made representations to the Alberta Department of Agriculture for financial assistance in defraying the fee of calfhood vaccination. After discussions with the Alberta Association of Municipal Districts and the Alberta Veterinary Association a decision was made to participate in the Brucellosis Restricted Areas only, on the following basis, namely:

1. The Department will contribute forty (40) cents per calf vaccinated to reduce the uniform vaccination fee by that amount. This forty cents will go to the Veterinarian. An additional ten cents (10c) per calf vaccinated will be paid to the Municipal District to defray part of the cost of organizing the vaccination program as undertaken by the Agricultural Service Board. The balance of the cost of organizing will be defrayed by the Municipal District. Thus the Department will contribute a total of fifty cents (50c) per calf vaccinated.
2. In the main two sets of vaccination fees have been in existence in Brucellosis Restricted Areas. To assure equal benefit of the above assistance from public funds it was deemed necessary to endeavour to have a uniform vaccination fee established. Therefore, the Alberta Veterinary Medical Assoc. was asked to set such a fee which has been accepted by the Association of Municipal Districts. It is as follows: a fee of one dollar ($1.00) for each of the first ten calves and sixty cents (60c) for each calf thereafter, with the option of charging an additional twenty five cents (25c) for individual certificates, such as purebreds.
3. In application this means that a cattleman will pay sixty cents (60c) for each of the first ten calves and twenty cents (20c) per calf thereafter.

For example, the financial arrangement for a man with 20 calves to vaccinate can be itemized as follows:

First 10 calves @ $1.00 each	$10.00
Second 10 calves @ 60c each	6.00
Total	$16.00
Less Dept. contribution @ 40c each	8.00
Cattleman pays (equally 40c each)	$8.00

4. The Department will continue to pay twenty five cents (25c) per animal blood tested for auction sales as required by the regulations. This is to assist the Municipal District in defraying the cost of branding positive reactors to prevent such infected animals being sold to unsuspecting buyers.

5. The municipal district will apply for the grant as in the past. The total fifty cents (50c) contribution will be paid to the municipal district to disperse as per these arrangements.

6. When the Brucellosis control policy of the Department was enacted in 1949 provision was made for several years of a complete calfhood vaccination program to be followed by a blood test to remove the remaining infected animals. Late in 1956 the Federal Department of Agriculture announced that they will do the blood testing free of charge and pay compensation for the infected animals. Under their program the areas will be designated as Brucellosis Control or Certified Areas. The method of conversion from our Brucellosis Restricted Areas to the Control Areas will be announced soon but it is the opinion of the Department that five to seven years of calfhood vaccination should take place before conversion to the blood test program.

Since the M.D. of Wainwright has had a vaccination program in effect for the past seven years, application has been made to convert to the blood testing policy of the Federal Govt.

7. The Provincial Dept. of Agriculture will continue the financial assistance on calfhood vaccination for two years after the commencement of the Federal testing program. It is recommended that vaccination should after that time but the cost will be defrayed completely by the cattle owner.

We appreciate the co-operation of all concerned to date in conducting an all out effort to control Brucellosis. The results have been most gratifying in reducing the number of cases of undulant fever in humans.

SEED QUALITY — WHAT ABOUT IT?

In grain farming the use of "good seed" is the soundest practice of all. Even the most highly organized grain farm will quickly tumble to poverty if it is denied the right seed for the right job. The old rhyme says that out of every four seeds that the farmer sows there is one for the worm, one for the crow, one to rot and one to grow. Although the situation may not be quite that serious in Western Canada, the rhyme does emphasize the importance of planting seed of the highest possible quality. What about it? Will the grain you produced in 1957 make good seed for 1958?

What is Good Seed? Of the many factors that can affect the quality of seed the following are of major importance: (1) Germination and vitality; (2) Freedom from disease; (3) Freedom from weed seeds and other impurities. High germination is, of course, the first requirement of good seed. However, ability to merely germinate is hardly enough. Unless a seed will grow and produce a strong, healthy seedling when it is planted, it is of little use. Unfortunately, a great deal of low-grade grain was produced in the Prairie Provinces this year. Our preliminary germination tests show that many seed samples, particularly of oats, barley and flax from this year's crop, are germinating very poorly. Consequently, we strongly advise farmers to have a germination test made on any grain from the 1957 crop they intend to use for seed in 1958.

Free Tests Available. To help farmers to find out whether or not the grain they intend to use for seed next Spring comes up to "good seed" standards, the Line Elevators Farm Service operates a first-class seed testing laboratory. Without charge, any farmer anywhere can have his seed tested for germination, for the presence of surface-borne smut, and for weed seed content. Local Agents of any of the Companies listed above will be glad to forward your seed samples to Winnipeg for testing. Now is the time to determine the "seed value" of the grain you intend to use for seed in 1958.

income dollar goes

In supplying hundreds of different oil products to Canadian consumers from coast to coast, Imperial last year took in a large number of dollars. What happened to a typical dollar?

Well, nearly 50 cents went to buy raw materials—noticeably crude oil—and for freight, a big item in a big country.

More than 36 cents went to operating and administrative costs, including wages and salaries, and for depreciation. Ten cents of each dollar went to various governments in taxes (this does not include the provincial gasoline tax.)

Half of what was left—or about 4 cents—was put back into the company's operations. The other half was divided among Imperial's 44,000 shareholders, whose investment makes possible the company's existence.

Weather Outlook

The month of November in Alberta will be featured by generally warmer than normal temperatures, but the period will be punctuated by rather frequent brief cold periods and five main precipitation periods spaced at fairly regular intervals. Opening on a chilly note, cooler than normal temperatures are expected during much of the first week. An extended and important interval of warm temperatures will occur between the 8th and the 13th of the month, but the Indian Summer weather will be halted rather abruptly by an outbreak of rain, snow and cold weather around the 15th.

This precipitation period will produce its most important rain and snowfall amounts in southern Alberta, where the month as a whole will range from near normal to about 25 per cent above normal. The month will offer relatively mild weather in northern Alberta and near seasonal in the extreme south.
